Features of the Issue

COVER — The first half of the year 2020 has officially come to a close—a stretch of time that was mostly spent battling and coping with a pandemic in ways disparate to one another. And now that we are in the zone of its second half, a question so demanding floats in the air: what is possibly in store for us this time around? For the month of July, we tackle the infamous “new normal” that the world has to get by with until there’s a vaccine available, together with sets of information vital to gliding along in this situation. These cover applications for virtual meetings, websites offering lessons for kids and adults alike, as well as restaurants and grocery stores offering delivery services.

JAPAN SPECIAL — It isn’t a fact unknown that traveling is unlikely to return to what it used to be anytime soon, with most borders closed and the aviation industry tending to the blow of the health crisis. The good news, though, is that this doesn’t have to limit anyone from jotting down those travel plans and searching for the best destination for the family. So while you plan and wait for your next travel vacation, we give you one place that is worth being on your list: the prefecture of Hokkaido in Japan, where the whole family could embark in an all-in-one trip of eating, shopping, playing, visiting hot springs, and learning a new culture!

THE FACE OF NEW NORMAL

Even before shifting to a more relaxed community quarantine, the Department of Health has already declared that regardless of what measures are observed in the country, wearing of masks will always be part of their protocol in curbing the spread of the virus. This, together with regular handwashing, practicing cough etiquette, and physical distancing then becomes a new habit that must be instilled in each and every one of us, especially as we slowly transition to the "new normal."

As foreign as this situation is, all of these new normal ways of doing things may take a lot of getting used to. But adjusting does not need to be that hard because there's the internet that makes it less so. Meet people, learn stuff, and purchase food and other necessities in the bubble of the virtual world while a vaccine is not yet here to take us back to our lives pre-pandemic.

NEW NORMAL

As per the revised guidelines of the country's Inter-Agency Task Force (IATF), an area is said to be under the new normal if the imposed level of community quarantine has already downgraded to MGCQ or modified general community quarantine. It is the most relaxed restriction measure implemented by the government, under which most business and transport operations resume albeit with acceptable safety directives; as well as fewer uniformed personnel can be observed.

TRANSPORTATION

Aside from the already-observed passenger reduction and social distancing inside public transport, other initiatives of the Department of Transportation include the implementation of the following: usage of bicycles or non-motorized transport, online seat booking, Automatic Fare Collection Systems, e-toll collection technology, and of shuttle services and school buses for both employees and students.

WORK

Although the work-from-home arrangement is seen as a rising trend especially among private companies, resumption of physical work will be allowed at full capacity in both public and private offices. However, prolonged face-to-face interactions are discouraged, and putting up barriers between workstations is a must. Senior citizens and pregnant women, on the other hand, can opt for alternative work arrangements.

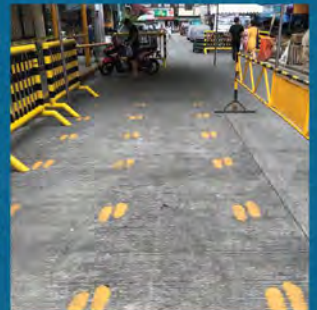

DINING

Food retail establishments in areas under MGCQ are allowed to render dine-in services but only at a maximum of 50% seating capacity. Buffet or self-service sections are not permitted and play areas are temporarily off-limits as well. Moreover, a tray for cash payment should be provided on top of the other available modes of payment to avoid physical contact.

PUBLIC SPACES

In all public spaces, social distancing mostly through observing foot traffic as well as wearing of masks shall always be practiced. Such is applicable to establishments like amusement, gaming, fitness, and personal care ones that were originally non-operational amid the stricter quarantine measures but are allowed a maximum of 50% venue capacity under MGCQ.

SHOPPING

Under the Memorandum Circular 20-21 of the Department of Trade and Industry, mall entrances and exits will be limited and one-way only, with one (1) person occupying two (2) sqm. of space. Escalators and establishments will also have marks that require mall-goers to stand two steps away from each other, while sales and other events or promotions will be suspended to prevent customers from hanging around. Wi-Fi will not be available as well.

HOTELS

In accordance with the Health and Safety Guidelines for Accommodation Establishments Under the New Normal by the IATF, accommodations are required to have guests fill up a health declaration form before check-in. This is atop the basic checking of body temperature, disinfecting of footwear, social distancing, observing hand hygiene, and providing materials that tackle respiratory etiquette and emergency contact numbers among others.

EDUCATION

Classes in the Philippines open on August 24, 2020. While there will be no face-to-face classes in basic education schools, higher education institutions are allowed to conduct such as long as they strictly comply with the minimum health standards and with the guidelines set by the Commission on Higher Education. Alternatives for the normal learning set-up, whereas, are blended learnings, distance learnings, and homeschooling.

TRAVELS

To keep passengers and crew members alike in the pink of health, the heeded guidelines by the aviation sector are enforced health security standards, increased utilization of online and digital processes for check-in and boarding, and disinfection of all aircraft and facilities. As of publishing, local airlines like AirAsia, Cebu Pacific, and Philippine Airlines have since resumed commercial flights with mostly domestic routes (except for PAL).

Applications for Virtual Meetings

Working from home is not news to most people anymore—because ever since the early stage of the coronavirus pandemic, a number of employees have been granted this very beneficial opportunity. And while such work arrangement is still underway, we provide you a set of tools that will probably be of help in maximizing every virtual meeting.

LEARNING AT HOME

This stay-at-home situation enveloping our society may be bothersome for most people, especially for those who are used to doing things in the outside world. A Flourishing Township for the Modern Times

ARCOVIA CITY

As the city continuously delivers the convenience it so promises, it has become not only a perfect place for business ventures but also an ideal place to reside in. And within the city of Pasig that's been making noise for its good governance peeps a young township called ArcoVia City. A 12.3 hectare place that is no more than a few minutes away from the business districts of its neighboring cities Ortigas and Makati, as well as other prime townships like Eastwood City and Uptown Bonifacio.

A Prime Residence for Ease and Opulence

The 37-storey 18 Avenue de Triomphe is the township's pioneer residential complex enwrapping a total of 576 units in its tract. With its selection of florid units ranging from studio and executive one-bedroom types to three-bedroom ones, 18 Avenue is all set to cater to different living standards, whether you are looking for an abode for oneself or for one's family. This is all the more pertinent as it is ingrained with high-grade security that makes every resident's welfare a natural given.

Significantly, set to follow the rise of 18 Avenue in 2023 is the tri-tower residential development ArcoVia Palazzo, which, on top of 18 Avenue's amenities like swimming pool, game room, gym, function room, and daycare center, features a multi-purpose lawn, a Jacuzzi, and a children's playground among others. While both township projects are still in the works, interested guests may drop by at the ArcoVia Grand Showroom where model units are open for viewing.

An Ideal Locale for Businesses

Soon welcoming guests and residents of ArcoVia City alike will be its office towers that are somehow like the greeters and at the same time sentinels of the expanse as they are envisioned to be side-by-side by the entryway, which can be easily located along C-5 Road. They are called One Paseo and Two Paseo respectively, the former being the township's first-ever office tower, already standing 17-stories tall.

One Paseo features 23,000-sqm. of leasable office spaces, which will be complemented by a lifestyle mall within, a viewing deck that will provide a commanding view of ArcoVia City, and other facilities that will bring colors to daily office hustle. This pioneer tower is also LEED-registered, rendering it more energy-efficient than others.

An Urban Landscape for Lavish Downtime

Following the footprints of its predecessors Eastwood City and Uptown Bonifacio, ArcoVia City, whose name equates to arch (Arco) and street (Via) respectively, is the latest project of Megaworld that holds the same promising township living experience that was already proven to be nothing less of what they market. It is located in one of Pasig City's accessible areas that is C-5 Road, offering ease of transportation to and from Metro Manila's prominent central business districts. And as it came later than the other townships, Megaworld was able to infuse a more refined concept to ArcoVia atop the formula that allowed their previous projects to be as successful as they are right now.

Remarkably, through the combination of European-inspired architecture and the allure of nature, all of its establishments—from the office towers and residential buildings to the whole community where they find home—provide a place where modernity runs parallel to sustainability. So as you treat yourself to an opulent future, you also treat yourself to a healthy environment in the long run. Because of this, in no time, ArcoVia City will definitely be Pasig City's next big thing—and you wouldn't want to miss growing with this township over the years.

- 📍 ArcoVia City, 99 Eulogio Rodriguez Jr. Ave. (C-5 Road), Pasig City
- ☎ (+63 2) 7718-0922 to 23
- ✉ nelson.acosta@eastwoodcity.com
- 🌐 arcoviacity.com.ph

The heart of ArcoVia City is molded upon the European terrains. This is apparent in the township's centerpiece Arco de Emperador, a 62-foot-high arch monument (which is the tallest bronze monument in the Philippines) sculpted from the ground up by Spanish sculptor Gines Serran Pagan, which embodies ArcoVia's vision for greatness. Looking past this symbolic landmark, another European aspect lies within: its extensive walkways specially designed for seamless strolls, making ArcoVia City a place where your cars can rest and your feet can roam.

Be it for leisure as you go from one dining destination to another along the retail row ArcoVia Parade, or for running errands as you drop by at Landers to the offices within One and Two Paseo, walking wouldn't seem so bad at ArcoVia especially when the place is filled with at least a thousand trees. Another place not to miss is The View Deck, which apart from restaurants is prominent for its perfect view of the Arco de Emperador.

Shikabe Kanketsusen Park

Winters in Hokkaido are equivalent to awe-inspiring hot springs and geysers and you'll find both at Shikabe Kanketsusen Park, a unique and very informative park perfect for the entire family!

Just before entering the park, you will find the Hot Steaming Center and BBQ Corner where guests may use the steamers heated by the natural hot spring in cooking their foods. Across this is the Product Center where you'll find various fresh seafood, delicatessen, souvenirs, and the Fisherwomen's Food Hall where you can enjoy meals. Meanwhile, the main highlight is the park tucked behind the product center. It opens up to a small museum-like hallway or cave tunnel that offers various learning information about geysers. Geysers are unique surfaces on Earth, similar to a small volcano, that discharges water with steam every few minutes. The geyser gushes about 15 meters high of water with 100°C.

The hallway then opens up to a Japanese garden, where you'll find the geyser itself, the hot spring area, and the Chobo-no-Yakata or observation deck where you can get an up-close look of the geyser. Just across the geyser is the hot spring area, a popular foot bath especially for adults as it is said to have healing properties for the nerves, muscles, joint pains, and sprains to name a few. Kids and adults can enjoy a little downtime at this park as it is usually quiet around. Not to mention that they also have a product center where you can purchase snacks.

Future Center Hakodate

Traveling to Hokkaido with kids can be too much for some but Future Center Hakodate's learning center is taking innovation and learning into the next level with their fun and knowledgeable activities for kids using advanced technologies!

The learning center has two highlights but Future Center Hakodate is specifically for bigger kids as they get to explore, discover, and play with science. This includes a big and interactive media wall wherein kids can explore a variety of scenes and see themselves on the screen, an imagination walk space where laser lights reflected on the floor bounces, a 360 studio where they can enjoy the art of sound and rhythms, a laboratory where they can experiment, as well as a station dedicated to flying planes and so much more! The center also has an in-house theater, an interactive mirror, and even allows guest to use their tablets and wifi service for free.

LUCKY PIERROT

Having an abundant marine life is one thing but having an own burger chain is definitely what makes Hakodate a more worthy destination. While Hakodate's fresh seafood is undoubtedly one of the things to look forward to when visiting the city, their very own burger chain is also a must-try!

LUCKY PIERROT is a burger joint that is exclusively available in Hakodate. The joint has 17 stores around Hakodate, each with individual store themes but with the same award-winning burger specialties.

One of the most popular burgers to try out is the Chinese Chicken Burger with a mix of sweet and sour flavor, crunchy lettuce, and mayonnaise. If you're a heavy eater, they also have The Original Futoccho (Fat Man's) Burger which is 18cm in height and has thick-sliced tomato, lettuce, onion, croquette, cheese, and 2 patties!

One of the closest branches is Lucky Pierrot, just a 5-minute walk from JR Hakodate Station and HAKOVIVA.

PEAK Cafe

What's a visit to Hokkaido without enjoying the cold weather? Hakodate Nanae Snow Park in particular is a perfect place for families who like to enjoy some adrenaline and adventures. The snow park is a popular skiing and snowboarding attraction boasting one of the longest gondola lifts in Japan.

On the highest peak of the park, you'll find a quaint cafe called PEAK Cafe where one can take in the awe-inspiring view of the mountain and the cold weather all the while sipping a warm cup of your favorite drink. The cafe also serves international dishes using locally produced and seasonal ingredients. They serve hamburgers, pizzas, steaks, and curries. They serve hamburgers, pizzas, steaks, and curries but one we recommend especially for kids is the Macaroni and Shrimp Gratin (¥1,300), a very light and hearty dish served with a side salad. It has the right amount of shrimp topped with baked cheese!

The cafe is elevated in a snow slope making it a photo-worthy spot for family pictures! Another worth checking at the mountaintop cafe is the PEAK bell located on the terrace. This is mostly popular for couples who want to ring the bell and take photos as it is perfectly back-dropped with the mountain.
